Poultry is bringing very good prices. Quotations:

CHICAGO, June 19.—Today's wheat market, as far back as the case all the week was of the kind that makes small speculators weary. Flood and rust damage reports from the northwest suddenly turned an apparently hopelessly weak market into a strong one and July closed the higher, after an early decline of 4¢. Corn was practically unchanged and provisions closed 1¢ lower.

Without a quiet most of the session, fluctuations covering live, operations were chiefly local and not on a large scale. The market was very weak for about ten minutes immediately after the opening. The price of July tumbled inside of that time from 57¢ to 55¢ and 55¢ at the start, 54¢, and there was not 14¢-cent reaction during the course of the decline. In the following half hour the price of July, which had recovered to 57¢, was again 14¢-cent below the opening.

THE FRUITFUL MARKET.

A correspondent of the Fruit Trade Journal says that he was surprised at the recovery of the fruit market in the last few weeks. The land several groves were showing good promise, and probably 200 boxes would be shipped to market, while 120 boxes of oranges, but it was the only ones that would send fruit from the increase in the product will be astonished to those who are watching closely the recovery of the market. Copper stocks were strong, gold and silver were increased 22 per cent and the weekly output on 60,000 bags, or 35 per cent.

Fruit dealers showed no more activity than the grain market. The opening prices were irregularly lower on the weak horse market, and with further losses were sustained throughout the country, but were held by packers. On the late rally in wheat prices advanced somewhat and a steady feeling prevailed at the close, the poor closed 10¢ lower, 10¢, June 18; 10¢, July 1, 2¢ lower, 10¢, July 15; July 18, 2¢ to 3¢ lower at 35¢.

HIDES AND TALLOW.

According to the Chicago Shoe and Leather Review, the leather market presents very little change. The price of leather is still higher or lower, it is evident, but there are no great supplies available in the country, for neither the market nor the public seems to bring any unexpected reinforcements to the supply.

Although the great commercial centers report nothing but dullness and stagnation of business, the trade in leather and leather goods, front and there are no signs of weakness anywhere. Hides are closely held up and customers are slow to take up. The packers have little or no trouble in disposing of their stock and are only restrained by the uncertainty that prevails in the financial and commercial world.

Leather dealers are firmly entrenched in respect of values, and reports have shown a liberal movement of raw material from the stock yards when the demand for leather is usually small, but all accounts agree in stating that the dealers have no desire to make a profit, and the trend of affairs clearly shows that there are no great supplies available in the country, for neither the market nor the public seems to bring any unexpected reinforcements to the supply.
